

REGULATIONS - BIOPOLIS/ CIBIO ADVANCED COURSES

For the PhD & MSc Students in Biodiversity, Genetic and Evolution (FCUP/ FCUL)

If accepted for a course, students are required to attend. If for any reason they are unable to attend, they must notify the Education & Training Unit (ETU) least 8 working days before the start of the course.

Failure to notify the Education & Training Unit of your absence will result in the following consequences:

- Exclusion from three future courses for PhD students;
- MSc students will lose the opportunity to attend other courses free of charge for the current academic year.

Attendance at all course sessions is required. Exceptional circumstances may justify missing sessions. Such reasons must be communicated by email to both the course coordinator and the ETU. Absences may have an impact on the successful completion of the course.

Student participation will be formally evaluated and approved by the course instructors based on consistent attendance at all course sessions and successful completion of course requirements and assessment tasks.
